Average sworn Daily Circulation over 15,000,-being more than three times that of any other daily paper in Washington, and equal to that of all the other daily papers in the city added together.

Notice to Correspondents. Persons writing letters to this office for publication or in regard to business will oblige us and best serve their own purposes by addressing them simply to the "EDITOR OF THE STAR" or the "PUBLISHER OF THE STAR," as the case may be. When addressed personally they are regarded as private letters, and in cases of absence inconvenient delays frequently occur from that cause. The commissioners appointed by the Meth odist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church South to remove all obstacles to fraternity between the two churches, who have been in session at Cape May for the past ten days, have agreed to a basis of settlement, as stated in THE STAR last evening. They concluded their labors last night, and have issued an address to the bishops, ministers and members of the two churches, which will be found in full on the third page of this paper. The proposed terms are such as can be honorably accepted by both bodies, and it is thought the reunion Will be consummated speedily.

The New York republicans presented one of their best men as candidate for governor at Saratoga yesterday. Governor Morgan has seen a good deal of public life. He was one of the war governors of the Empire state, serving two terms, and during his administration sent to the front 223,000 troops. In 1868 he was elected to the United States Senate, and after the retirement of Secretary Fessender was offered the Treasury portfolio, which he declined. He held the chairmanship of the national executive committee of the republican party for several years. He is about sixty five years of age, is wealthy, and has an unsulfied reputation. The democracy at their convention next week must bring out their best man if they would defeat him. Much interest is naturally felt in the result in New York. In 1872 the state gave Grant 52,456 majority over Greeley, while Gen. Dix's majority was a little more. In 1873, at the election for state officers, (excepting governor) the democrats carried their ticket by 9.893 majority. In 1874 Tilden beat Dix by 50,317 majority. In 1875 the democrats again carried the state by 13,559 majority. These figures show how variable the state is, and indicate a close contest this year.

No person, we suppose, would think of holding the employes of a railroad company responsible for the consequences of a broken car axle, unless it could be shown that due diligence to discover a defect had not been used before the train started; but an accident from that cause having blocked the track and prevented all travel over it, nothing but the most criminal neglect on the part of those employes would allow a passenger train known to be due to rush full speed upon the wreck, at the imminent risk of life and property, as happened on the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore railroad yesterday morning. That no lives were lost by this "second accident," as it is called with a sort of grim irony, in no wise lessens the criminality of those in fault in the matter. This case is a proper one for the grand jury, if it should happen that the railway company in question does not own the grand jury and control the courts where the cause would have to be tried. But perhaps the surest way to secure justice in such cases is for the imperiled passengers themselves to organize a provisional court and try the offenders on the spot.

The coal combination has gone to pieces, to the joy of consumers, who naturally expect that cheaper prices will prevail There need be no fear, however, that another ring or combination will not soon be formed. If the large companies flud they can best fleece the public and line their own pockets by combining, they will not hestiate to do so.

An absurd story has recently been put in circulation by some malicious person writing a letter to the Cincinnati Commercial to the effect that among the many distant callers on Gevernor Hayes, at Columbus, since his nomination, was a tall, coarse-featured man, about forty years of age, who sent in his card, A. R. Shepherd, Washington, D.C., and that the Governor, after looking at the name for a moment, indignantly sent word by his messeager "that he did not want his acquaintance, and wanted nothing to do with public plunderers." That this is a deliberate lie, manufactured out of the whole cloth, will be understood when it is known, as is the fact, that Mr. Shepherd has not been twenty miles distant from Washington in the last six months. But was it necessary to lug a presidential candidate into the imaginary scene, and present him in the character of a pharisaic boor, in order that a little mud DARK DUSTERS might be thrown upon Mr. Shepherd by some | LIGHT DUSTERS of his enemies?

Governor Canales, of Tamaulipas, Mexico, is a model Mexican revolutionist. He is reported as committing great outrages, pressing forced loans, issuing worthless paper money, and compelling people to sell their property to his private agents. He boldly asserts that his only purpose in rebelling was to raise money. The time will probably come when an outraged people will raise him at the end of a stout hempen rope.

General Kilpatrick, sometimes known as "Killcavalry," writes as he was accustomed to fight-rashly-judging from the purioined letter which he recently wrote to Governor Hayes. It is a question whether his usefulness as a paid stump orator, which never amounted to much, will not be still farther impaired by the letter in question.

Senator Hamlin corroborates, except in one particular, the veteran journalist and politician, Thurlow Weet, in his statement that in 1850, Alex. H. Stephens, Rob't Toombs and Thomas L. Clingman, had a stormy interview with President Taylor. The state. ment has been earnestly denied by Messrs. Stephens and Toombs. According to Mr. Weed, the object of the interview was to in. duce General Taylor, a southern man and a Blaveholder, to veto the bill permitting California to enter the union as a free state. This he would not do, and Mr. Weed charges that Stephens and Toombs indulged in threats of disunion, which were indignantly resented by General Taylor. Mr. Hamlin writes to Mr. Weed to say that he visited General Taylor a moment after Stephens and Toombs left his office. As they passed out they both seemed greatly exetted. Mr. Hamlin passed into the President's room and found him likewise much disturbed. In fact, to use Mr. Hamlin's own words, "he appeared like an enraged ilon in his caza." He walked across the room several times, and then addressing Mr. Hamlin inquired what he was doing with the "Omnibus bill." Mr. Hamlin replied that, believing it wrong, he was trying to defeat it. The President's rejoinder was decided. "Stand firm," he replied; "don't yield; it means disunion, and I am pained to learn that we have disunion men to contend with; disunion is treason;" and, with an expletive, he said "that if they attempted to carry out their schemes while he was President they should be dealt with by law as they deserved and executed. Once or twice in the conversation he amrmed that he would not be coerced by any man or men from the strict line of his duty, as he understood it, and that the union must be preserved at all hazards." It would appear from this that the gallant old soldier President had a good deal of Jacksonian grit about him.
